Christophe Dolcerocca
Director

Christophe Dolcerocca is a Danish/French director of Corsican descent, based out of Copenhagen.

His work moves in the genres of beauty, fashion, lifestyle and emotional storytelling. He possesses a timeless sense of beauty and elegance, though he always seeks to challenge with edgy aesthetics and visual gimmicks. There is an epic sense to his storytelling and an ever-present eye-candy quality. Although his Mediterranean larger-than-life mentality is counterbalanced with his Scandinavian sense of authentic slice-of-life.

This has led him to direct works for international recording artists, fashion designers and commercial brands. For years he was a sought-after commercial editor, until his directing career took off. His meticulous eye for editing seems to elevate any visual concept with a stand-out quality. He simply knows how to make it pop!

Christophe graduated from The Motion Picture Institute of Michigan in 2000 and has a degree in Film and Media from The University of Copenhagen, in 2007.

He loves plants, dogs, home interior and movies, and above all traveling remote locations of the world, where he likes to chase epic sundowners, soothing camp fires and to sleep under no roof.
