

VITA

Roman Kuhn
AI Artist, Director
& Photographer

Roman Kuhn is a versatile and talented creative with extensive experience in storytelling, graphic design, filmmaking, and photography. With his entry into the world of AI art, he has merged his expertise and pushed the boundaries of creativity even further. With these new tools, he can create breathtaking images and films that were previously unimaginable.

Throughout his career, Roman has perfected his skills as a Filmmaker, crafting captivating narratives that captivate audiences. As a creative director and graphic designer, he has created impressive campaigns that resonate with viewers. His experience as a film director brings these ideas to life on the screen, while his unique perspective on visual storytelling, gained through his photography, adds depth to his creative projects.

As one of the first 3D artists in Germany, Roman pioneered the use of computer animation, laying the foundation for his diverse range of projects, spanning graphic design, commercials, and filmmaking. One of the highlights of his career was the Olympic bid film for Berlin.

With his understanding of camera technology and digital post-production, he constantly explores new possibilities of visualization. Alongside his film work, his passion for photography has become an integral part of his creative endeavors. As an avid car and motorcycle enthusiast, he has established himself as one of the leading automotive photographers.